

THE SIX PARTY TALKS:
CAN “AD HOC MULTILATERALISM”
FOSTER SECURITY REGIME POLITICS

William T. Tow

Presented to Workshop on “ASEAN, Thailand, and the Korean Peninsula:
A need for a new security arrangement in East Asia?”

Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Thailand and
Institute of East Asian Studies, Thammasat University
27 January, 2014

- What Is “Ad Hoc Multilateralism”? (Cha, et. al.)
- “Security Regimes”: Contending Definitions
- Linkage Factors Between AHM and SR:
 - Specific Issue-Areas as Policy Catalysts
 - Learning and Negotiations
 - Declarations and Defections
 - Regime Credibility (i.e. NPT Reviews)

- Southeast Asia's stake in Northeast Asian Stability
 - Territorial and Irredentist Disputes: Cross Comparisons of Sub-regional Precedents
 - Resource and Maritime Security
 - Developed versus Developing Economies

- Alternatives to Regime-Building
 - Power Balancing (Sustaining Alliances and Coalitions)
 - Implosion Scenarios (Not Just on the Korean Peninsula!)
 - Reconciling History (Long-Term) and Order-Building
 - Shaping Security Architectures (Hierarchical-Hegemonic; Concert; Confederation)